Published: 15.12.2022.

Job Information offices are advice points for people who are actively looking for work. People do not need to register with the SEA to visit the job Information office.

Here you can find information on job vacancies, specialist employment advice and sample documents (CVs, application letters, etc.). The the job Information office has an informal but professional atmosphere, which encourages people to look for work more actively.

Currently, the job Information offices have been set up in the largest Latvian cities with the most active labour markets. Job Information offices have also gained popularity among employers. Meetings with potential employees are organised here, as well as recruitment drives. Job Information offices are an example of active dialogue between workers and employers.
